PASTOR'S CORNER

Silence can imply absence, distance, or “do not disturb.” But what does Zephaniah 1:7 mean when it says, “Be silent before the Lord GOD!”? Does it mean we should disconnect ourselves from the Lord so we will not disturb Him? Not at all. In its context, this command calls God’s people to stop their presumptuous complaining and recognize the holiness, authority, and coming judgment of God. Their attitude toward God had become disrespectful, as they questioned His ways and presumed that He was indifferent or unfair.

To “be silent before the Lord” is therefore not to withdraw from Him, but to quiet our hearts before Him—to stop complaining, surrender our questions, and trust His perfect wisdom and sovereign power.

May we not be noisy with complaints before God, but silent in faith—at peace and confident in our perfect and powerful Lord. Sometimes, the best response to God is not another question, but a quiet heart that simply trusts Him. – Pastor Abe Bigornia
